Snoqualmie Valley Health Welcomes Dr. Jordan Wallace to the Pediatric Care Team

Dr. Jordan Wallace

SNOQUALMIE, WA – Snoqualmie Valley Health is proud to welcome Dr. Jordan Wallace, MD, as the newest member of the pediatric primary care team.

Located at the Ridge Clinic on Center Boulevard in Snoqualmie, Dr. Wallace joined SVH in October and has already begun making a positive impact in the lives of children and families throughout the Snoqualmie Valley.

Dr. Wallace brings exceptional expertise, compassion, and a commitment to providing equitable, evidence-based care to children and their families. He completed his medical degree at the University of Washington and his residency at Seattle Children’s Hospital.

Most recently, he served as a hospitalist on the pediatric cardiology unit at Lucile Packard Children’s Hospital in Palo Alto, CA, specializing in care for children with complex congenital heart disease. With his experience caring for children with complex health needs, Dr. Wallace brings a wealth of knowledge to his new role at Snoqualmie Valley Health.

“I believe every child has the right to a healthy and fulfilling life,” says Dr. Wallace. “I am excited to join the pediatric team at Snoqualmie Valley Health and to expand resources for youth in our community.”

As a dedicated advocate for gender-diverse youth, Dr. Wallace provides inclusive healthcare informed by his personal and professional insights as a member of the LGBTQIA+ community. He is passionate about fostering family relationships, supporting patients in exploring their gender identities, and addressing the mental health challenges often faced by gender-diverse youth.

Dr. Wallace is also highly skilled in working with children with multiple medical conditions, helping families navigate complex medical systems with care and advocacy.
