Snoqualmie Valley Health Celebrates Best of the Best Awards Recognition

Dr. Neeta Jain

Snoqualmie Valley Health (SVH) is proud to announce the recognition of several of its providers at this year's Best of the Best Awards, hosted by the Snoqualmie Valley Chamber of Commerce. The event took place March 21 at Remlinger Farms, bringing together businesses and community members to honor top professionals and organizations in the Valley.

Dr. Neeta Jain, pediatrician at SVH, was named Best Pediatrician. Jain's compassionate care, dedication to her young patients and commitment to supporting families have made her a trusted and beloved healthcare provider in the community.

"Thank you to everyone who voted for me," Jain said. "I feel humbled to work with children, as I believe they are brilliant and represent the hope for the future of humanity. To share even a small space with them is an honor."

In addition to Jain's win, SVH is proud of two additional providers who were recognized as nominees in their categories:

- Dr. Roxanne Hicks, internal medicine and women's health physician, was nominated for Best Doctor.
- Rachel Robison, ARNP, family nurse practitioner, was nominated for Best Pediatrician.

The Best of the Best Awards celebrate local businesses and professionals across a variety of industries. Winners are selected based on community nominations and votes.

LIVE BOLDLY.
LIVE WELL.

SVH congratulates all the nominees and winners who make the Valley such a vibrant place to live and work.
